

One of the last videos

I put this one together with the last few clips I made with the old video camera. I have used it again since then however. This is just a couple of clips of the boys. Its called upgrade because I have upgraded my video camera since. The last bit is Noah enjoying the opera I was watching on the ABC. I forget who the singer was, but she was the only one he liked. Any other singer would upset him, even when she came on for another song later, he enjoyed it. It was at night, and that is why it looks a bit weird, the old camera was not that good at night filming. I had to push the brightness right up.

The music is from Maya Filipič from Spain. The tune is "Stories from Emona III" from her album "Between two Worlds". It is of course released under the creative commons license (<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/3.0/>) and you can check her other great music at Jamendo.

Other credits of course are for Kdenlive, Kino and Ubuntu.
